COUNTRY ROCK CONCERT BENEFITS ANIMALS

A Local Band Raises Money for the Seattle Humane Society

A free concert will be held Thursday, Sept. 25 to raise critical funding for the Seattle Humane Society's lifesaving work. Country Rock Association (CRA), a local country band, is hosting a three-hour show at Big Daddy's Place in Woodinville to support the Seattle Humane Society. The music starts at 9 p.m. and admission is FREE! All donations throughout the evening will be contributed to the Seattle Humane Society.

Country Rock Association's playlist includes the music of Big and Rich, Kenny Chesney, Rascal Flatts, Brooks and Dunn and many other popular artists. In addition to the benefit performance, volunteers from the Seattle Humane Society will be on hand discussing the mission of the organization, accepting donations and selling logo merchandise. But mostly the night is about having a great time.

Ferguson says that doing a benefit for the Seattle Humane Society was a no brainer for the guys in the band. "Everyone has a pet," he says. "Big Daddy G [George, the drummer] has a dog named Dallas that is a big, old, friendly dog. F-bomb [Frank, the guitarist] has cats in his household and Vegas [Vince, the vocalist] has a dog. It was an obvious choice to support the Seattle Humane Society." Ferguson, whose nickname is "The Professor," lives with a cat "who thinks he's a dog."

"The Seattle Humane Society is always honored when a group like the Country Rock Association decides to hold a benefit to help us save more animals' lives and to bring people and pets together," states Brenda Barnette, chief executive officer of the Seattle Humane Society. "We appreciate the money that is raised and also the opportunity to bring orphaned animals to the attention of great people who love County Rock and pets!"

Big Daddy's Place is located in Woodinville at 17626 140th Ave. N.E., close to Towne Center.

The Seattle Humane Society was founded in 1897 to bring people and pets together. The Seattle Humane Society does this today through its adoptions, low-fee spay/neuter surgery program, pet workshops and training, pet food bank, humane teen club, visiting pets program and more. The Seattle Humane Society is located in Bellevue, at 13212 SE Eastgate Way. For directions and more information, visit www.seattlehumane.org or call (425) 641-0080.
