

Seattle Humane Elects New Slate of Officers

The Seattle Humane Society board elected a new slate of officers on Sept. 28.

The new board chair is John Corby of Kirkland, a financial services executive and a board member since 2006.

Vice-chairs are Seattle residents Michele Vivona, senior vice president of Global Web Strategy for LexisNexis®; and Mary Kay Wright, an investment officer of Wells Fargo Advisors.

The new treasurer is Chris Falco of Sammamish, partner and shareholder of Falco-Sult & Company, PS.

Elected secretary is James Linardos of Seattle, senior vice president of Wells Fargo Bank.

A special thanks was given to outgoing officers Chuck Stempler, chair; Martha Fuller, vice chair; and Rich Finlay, treasurer, for their outstanding leadership and support of the animals in our community. Under their guidance, Seattle Humane Society placed 6,091 animals into homes of their own in fiscal year 2009/2010.

Seattle Humane Society is dedicated to keeping people and pets together. We offer pet adoptions, low-fee microchipping and spay and neuter programs, training, pet workshops, a Pet Food Bank and more. Supported entirely by donations, we are the largest private shelter in Western Washington and the #1 resource for everything pet-related.

Seattle Humane Society has been awarded the coveted 4-star rating by Charity Navigator, America's largest independent charity evaluator. Founded in 1897 to bring people and pets together, Seattle Humane Society provides incredible companion animals for adoption 7 days a week, pet workshops and training, a pet food bank, a low-fee spay/neuter surgery program, humane teen club, a visiting pets program and more. Seattle Humane Society is located in Bellevue, at 13212 SE Eastgate Way. For directions and more information, visit www.seattlehumane.org or call (425) 641-0080.
