

February 12, 2008

MEDIA CONTACT:

Brenda F. Barnette, CEO

(425) 241-6965

Brenda@seattlehumane.org

www.seattlehumane.org

WITH HOME FORECLOSURES ON THE RISE – PETS TOO NEED NEW HOMES

Instead of Abandoning, Think 'Re-Homing'

BELLEVUE, WA – As news sweeps the nation of family pets being found abandoned in foreclosed homes, people facing hard times can take heart that there is a better option for their pets. The Seattle Humane Society will care for your pets when you no longer can, and give them as long as it takes to find them a new family and a home of their own. If you are unable to keep your pets, call the Seattle Humane Society at (425) 649-7561 to schedule an appointment with the Admissions Department.

The Admissions Department is open Wednesday thru Friday, 12pm – 6pm, and Saturday thru Sunday, 12pm – 5pm. For a detailed description of the Seattle Humane Society's admissions process, visit www.seattlehumane.org/services.shtml.

“Admitting your pets to a shelter can be a difficult decision, and we are here to help you,” said Brenda Barnette, chief executive officer of the Seattle Humane Society. “The Seattle Humane Society is committed to finding homes for every healthy and loving animal that comes through our doors.”

All shelter guests are well cared for to ensure they have as happy an experience as possible while we search for the right family for them. Not only do they receive high quality medical care, but our recent facility remodel provides them with a home-like environment. Every day, volunteers work with our dogs to teach them new tricks and games. Likewise, volunteers shower our cats with attention daily and help keep them looking their best.

When you or a loved one are no longer able to give your pet the home they need, we hope you will turn to the Seattle Humane Society.

The Seattle Humane Society was founded in 1897 to bring people and pets together. Today, we keep that promise through our low-fee spay/neuter surgery program, pet workshops and training, pet food bank, taking pets to senior centers, and more. We are located in Bellevue, at 13212 SE Eastgate Way. For directions and more information, visit www.seattlehumane.org or call (425) 641-0080.

###